

because motherhood doesn't mean the end of style

onechicmama.com

FRIDAY, JANUARY 11, 2008

No More London, No More France...

With low-rise jeans being the popular trend these days, most of us have at least one pair in our closet. But the downfall to wearing low-rise jeans, as most of us know, can be showing off London and France as we sit down at the park, or bend over to tie our child's shoes. It can be embarrassing, to say the least.

Fortunately for us, two moms decided they had had enough of flashing their thongs when bending over, or even worse, their teenage daughters' thongs making cameo appearances at school. They created the Hip-T to give moms and their daughters a solution to showing what's better kept private.

The Hip-T is a band made from cotton with a touch of spandex for stretch. It covers the area in question (from midriff to below waist) to give you a streamlined look and keep your undies under wraps. It looks like the bottom of a camisole peeking out from under your top, without the added bulk, and gives you the coverage you need to bend over with confidence!

Labels: Hip-T

posted by One Chic Mama @ 10:10 PM

4 Comments:

At 11:00 AM,  cmwheeler said...

I love this idea - you better believe that I ordered a couple!

At 2:11 PM,

At 5:26 AM,  Style Eyes said...

What a great idea.

At 2:53 PM,  Shefali said...

OMG this is brilliant!

Post a Comment

Links to this post:

Create a Link

<< Home